

Rambling Roses and Flying Bricks

By Earl Tucker

Last week I had, in the hospital, as company three very interesting people. Come to think of it, when you're in a hospital, all company is interesting. A nice long visit from Castro or Khrushchev would be welcomed.

The three I had in mind, though, were a baby sitter, a man-about-town, and a lady who went around doing good and telling people about it. She was the wife of a successful politician.

If I had to select the most entertaining of the three I would pick the baby sitter, and I reckon the reason would be because she talked more freely of her work and told me things I never knew. She is "tops" in her profession, and by that I mean she has the confidence of the parents, the children love and respect her, she is well educated, and she keeps the children in her own spacious home, which is clean and well equipped with games for children of all ages.

I was astonished to learn that her "salary" per hour was higher than the pres-games, which she says is fairly easy to do, on account of the fact that she is a baby sitter.

Now maybe you don't know what a man-about-town is. In fact, I just found out myself. There is a guy who drops in for 3 or 4 minutes every few days since I have been in the hospital. He's an entertaining sort of fellow and always leaves me in better spirits. I recall the first day he came by and I remember what he said when I asked him what business he was in. "I reckon I'm just a man-about-town," he said, which left me greatly confused because I had often heard the expression and wondered what kind of a man was a man-about-town.

From asking him and others, I learned that he had insurance, real estate and used cars. He was a notary public but "never made a dime" out of it. He was or had been on the Jury Board and was Superintendent of his church's Sunday School. On the steady side of seventy, he had taught in a small college "as long as he could afford it." During the depression years he was connected with the WPA or the PWA but couldn't remember which. He said all he could remember about it was that he built ponds the next but he just couldn't remember which was the dressing agency or the fishing agency because they built nets and divided the fish among the workers. Friday was pay day and somehow or other, during the years, he was with them, they managed to open the "last" canal and let the water out on Friday. This was so they could have money to "get grease" and fish to fry in it on the same day.

On top of all that, he was chairman of the Red Cross Drive and the Easter Seal campaign. It's good to know a man-about-town. We need more of them.

The lady who went about doing good was entertaining, too, in a disarming sort of way. She told me each day how many of her husband's friends she had visited, in the hope, I suppose, that they (the voters) will remember it when election time rolls around. She brought them all a rose, or a piece of cake, or a book somebody sent her that she was trying to get rid of. It's a miracle that so many hospital patients live, considering the books they get while in the hospital.

While I don't vote in the county where her husband holds office, I reckon I would vote for him if I could — not on account of six roses (two slightly wilted), one piece of fruit cake thoroughly saturated with Four Roses (which I can't eat or drink) and a 49¢-page book "The Life and Sayings of Rev. Sam P. Jones." For your information I might say right here that the Rev. Sam P. Jones, according to my way of thinking, never said much. What I think happened was that Mrs. Jones and some of the children were right proud of Rev. Sam, so what they did was to have a bunch of books printed and had somebody sell 'em at revivals and religious camp meetings and the like. I reckon this lady bought the book on account of her husband was in politics.

Next week, when I go back to the hospital, she'll bring me a valentine, bless her soul.

Commission

Upholds Co-ops

Allegations

The Alabama Public Service Commission has upheld allegations of several electric cooperatives as to insufficiency of information filed with the Commission by Alabama Power Company in connection with a proposed $40 million financing issue sought by the utility.

The Commission announced February 7, that it was sustaining the portion of demurrers filed by the cooperatives which alleged that Alabama Power's petition for Commission approval of its financing plan fails to sufficiently describe the plants, properties, extensions and improvements to be constructed from the proceeds of said securities.

Eleven cooperatives, in their petitions for intervention, cited duplication of their facilities by Alabama Power Company. In the past, their fear that the utility might use proceeds of the new financing issue sought to carry out further duplication of their lines.

Hearings on Alabama Power's petition opened January 28. Following a morning of legal skirmishing during which the co-ops won the right to intervene in the proceedings, the hearing was recessed while Commissioners took under advisement the demurrers filed by the cooperatives.

In 1963, the Public Service Commission wrote into its order approving a $29 million financing issue for Alabama Power, a restriction that none of these funds could be used to duplicate facilities now serve consumers of electric cooperatives which intervened in that case.

The non-duplication portion of the order was later appealed by Alabama Power Company to the Montgomery Circuit Court. However, the Commission's order was upheld in a January, 1964, decision of Circuit Judge Eugene Carter.

FARM BRIEFS

Finland is the world leader in per capita consumption of milk. The level of consumption is 70 per cent higher than in the United States.

Clean steam pressure canners after each use to assure efficient, safe canning. To clean the safety valve and petcock, draw a string or narrow piece of cloth through them.

Progress in Elba

A lot of changing is going on in Elba. Comforting is that a lot of improvements are being made and a lot of progress that may mean better business. Keep in touch and know what is happening-help Elba to go forward. It is up to all of us to encourage people to come to Elba to do their shopping.

COUNTRY CLUB

The Elba Country Club grounds are looking real encouraging. The lake is fast taking shape and the golf course is beginning to look real good. The clubhouse will be completed in a few weeks and the real large swimming pool is about half built. That swimming pool is large enough to be called a glorified lake. The outlook from the large glass windows looking over the golf course, the swimming pool and the lake will really be wonderful. It is a beautiful set-up. Actually I am amazed at the progress that has been made and the beauty that is developing. I have already started digging through the attic for my golf bag, clubs and irons. Not that I know anything about playing golf but I have most of the plunger it takes to play with the exception of one of those carts sick people (or lazy people) can ride around in. Guess I'll have to do without the electric cart since I can't get away with claiming to be sick and I don't want to be accused of being lazy. The people in Elba should be very proud of the Elba Country Club. It will be a great asset to the city and a lot of pleasure can be enjoyed. Somebody has done a wonderful job of planning and getting the job so far advanced. It is amazing!

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

I haven't found the first person who supports desegregation of the public schools who live up to what they preach. Ask U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. if he sends his child to school with Negro children. Ask him if he has plans to do so, or even to allow his white child to attend school with Negro children. Ask Attorney Bobby Kennedy the same thing. Ask hundreds of other who are doing everything they can to force desegregation of the schools. If they are going to do as they tell others to do, I find that apparently they think "you" should desegregate "your" children, but "not their children". Ask them.

THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS

The Birmingham News talks about how the white children in Macon County are the ones who will suffer. Their reason is because the people in Macon County refuse to attend classes with Negro children. It is not because white people in Macon County have been discriminated against and

She is "young" in her profession, and by that I mean she has the confidence of the parents, the children love and respect her, she is well educated, and she keeps the children in her own spacious home, which is clean and well equipped with games for children of all ages.

I was astonished to learn that her "salary" per hour was higher than the president of sixteen Southern colleges. On top of that, she said she didn't have to worry about her "football team" losing on Fat Saturdays and being hanged in effigy!

She told me that children could come up with some crazy questions. One child, the night before, had asked her why they didn't put the cent mark in front of prices, as "Special This Week 11". The child said they put the dollar mark in front, as $11. Actually, I don't think that's such a crazy question, and speaking of questions, why don't they put the question mark in front of long sentences? At least you would know you were confronted with a question, wouldn't you?

Those responsible for children crying and throwing fits are the parents themselves. They tell the child they'll be back at 10 o'clock. When they don't get back at 10 or 11, or 12, there is some complaining going on. Another thing, says the baby sitter, is to let the child win occasionally if they are playing games, which she says is fairly easy to do, on account of she gets sleepy herself about 10 o'clock.

Now maybe you don't know what a man-about-town is. In fact, I just found out myself. There is a guy who drops in for 3 or 4 minutes every few days since I have been in the hospital. He's an entertaining sort of fellow and always leaves me in better spirits. I recall the first day he came by and I remember what he said when I asked him what business he was in. "I reckon I'm just a man-about-town," he said, which left me greatly confused because I had often heard the expression and wondered what kind of a man was a man-about-town.

From asking him and others, I learned that he sold insurance, real estate and used cars. He was a notary public but "never made a dime" out of it. He was or had been on the jury bench and was Superintendent of his church's Sunday School. On the study side of seventy, he had taught in a small college "as long as he could afford it." During the depression years he was connected with the WPA or the PWA but couldn't remember which. He said all he could remember about it was that they built ponds one week and drained ponds the next but he just couldn't remember which was the pond-building agency or the draining agency. He was fond of his job with the pond draining agency because they built nets and divided the fish among the workers.

Friday was pay day and some-thing, he was with them, they managed to open the "laid canal, and let the water out on Friday. This was so they could have money to "get groceries" and fish to fry in on the same day.

On top of all that, he was chairman of the Red Cross Drive and the Easter Seal campaign. It's good to know a "man-about-town!" We need more of them.

The lady who went about doing good was entertaining, too, in a disarming sort of way. She told me each day how many of her husband's friends she had brought in, in the hope, I suppose, that they (the voters) will remember it when election time rolls around. She brought them all a rose, or a piece of cake, or a book somebody sent her that she was trying to get rid of. It's a miracle that so many hospital patients live, considering the books they get while in the hospital.

While I don't vote in the county where her husband holds office, I reckon I would vote for him if I could — not on account of six roses (two slightly wilted), one piece of fruit cake thoroughly saturated with Four Roses (which I can't eat or drink) and a 48-page book "The Life and Sayings of Rev. Sam P. Jones." For your information I might say right here that the Rev. Sam P. Jones, according to my way of thinking, never said much. What I think happened was that Mrs. Jones and some of the children were right proud of Rev. Sam, so what they did was to have a bunch of books printed and had somebody sell 'em at revivals and religious camp meetings and the like. I reckon this lady bought the book on account of her husband was in politics.

Next week, when I go back to the hospital, she'll bring me a valentine, bless her soul.

Eleven cooperatives, in their petitions for intervention, cited duplication of their facilities by Alabama Power Company in the past, and their fear that the utility might use proceeds of the new financing to duplicate the facilities.

In 1963, the Public Service Commission wrote into its order approving a $29 million financing issue for Alabama Power, a restriction that none of these funds could be used to duplicate facilities nor serve consumers of electric cooperatives which intervened in that case.

The non-duplication portion of the order was later appealed by Alabama Power Company to the Montgomery Circuit Court. However, the Commission's order was upheld in a January, 1964, decision of Circuit Judge Eugene Carter.

PROGRESS IN ELBA

A lot of changing is going on in Elba. Comforting is that a lot of improvements are being made and a lot of progress that may mean better business. Keep in touch and know what is happening-help Elba to go forward. It is up to all of us to encourage people to come to Elba to do their shopping.

COUNTRY CLUB

The Elba Country Club and grounds are looking real encouraging. The lake is fast taking shape and the golf course is beginning to look real good. The club house will be completed in a few weeks and the real large swimming pool is about half built. That swimming pool is large enough to be called a glorified lake. The outlook from the large glass windows looking over the golf course, the swimming pool and the lake will really be wonderful. It is a beautiful set-up. Actually I am amazed at the progress that has been made and the beauty that is developing. I have already started digging through the attic for my golf bag, clubs and irons. Not that I know anything about playing golf but I have most of the plunger it takes to play with the exception of one of those carts sick people (or lazy people) can ride around in. Guess I'll have to do without the electric cart since I can't get away with claiming to be sick and I don't want to be accused of being lazy. The people in Elba should be very proud of the Elba Country Club. It will be a great asset to the city and a lot of pleasure can be enjoyed. Somebody has done a wonderful job of planning and getting the job so far advanced. It is amazing!

PRIVATE SCHOOLS

I haven't found the first person who supports desegregation of the public schools who live up to what they preach. Ask U.S. District Judge Frank M. Johnson Jr. If he sends his child to school with Negro children. Ask him if he has plans to do so, or even to allow his white child to attend school with Negro children. Ask attorney Bobby Kennedy the same thing. Ask hundreds of others who are doing everything they can to force desegregation of the schools. If they are going to do as they tell others to do, I find that apparently they think "you" should desegregate "your" children but "not their children". Ask them.

THE BIRMINGHAM NEWS

The Birmingham News talks about how the white children in Macon County are the ones who will suffer. Their reason is because the people in Macon refuse to attend classes with Negro children. It is not because white people in Macon County have been discriminated against and

Candidates Continue To Qualify

Politics is picking up steam in Coffee County. Ten formal announcements are appearing in the political announcement column with one arriving after the page had been closed out. A display announcement will be found on another page from one candidate for reelection as Coffee County Commissioner.

Structure with one will appear next week for two candidates who have qualified for political office. They will be Fred Meadows, Elba, and William others who will qualify and place their announcements later.

Kitchen And Laundry
Improvement

Most of us can't have everything we want in the kitchen and laundry, but we can improve what we have.

Any homemaker in Coffee County who is interested in improving her kitchen or laundry is invited to enroll in the Kitchen-Laundry Improvement Program. Those who enroll will gain much. First, an attractive folder will be presented to them. Included is a bulletin on kitchen planning and one on laundry planning. These bulletins contain the latest research recommendations. There are ideas about rearranging the kitchen and the laundry. Hints about floor coverings, wiring and lighting are included.

We have some meetings on kitchen planning and laundry planning. If you're interested we can invite you to attend these.

Last week eight home demonstration club women and the home agent attended a training school in Andalusia on planning kitchen and laundry areas. The leaders attending were: Mrs. Mavis Pulford, Mrs. Macon Henderson, Mrs. Harold Tindol, Mrs. Erin Danford, Mrs. Robert Wise, Mrs. Harold Moody and Mrs. Orell Parker.

We received instructions on how and who could enter the kitchen and laundry improvement program. Anyone or any organized club may enter. If you are interested in any improvements we have planned an informal workshop for you on March 2 and on March 9 at the Enterprise Recreation Center at 1:30 p.m. Come and bring a friend. Anyone of the leaders who attended the training meeting in Andalusia will be able to answer questions for you.

Washable leather gloves will dry softer if you will roll them for a minute in a moist towel after they have been washed.

Student Council
Clean-Up
Winner

The first winner in the Student Council sponsored Clean-Up Campaign was announced in chapel last Wednesday.

The winner was Miss Sylvia Jones' Ninth Grade homeroom.

A special committee headed by Mary Easters inspected the rooms several times during the week, and then averaged the scores to determine the winner.

If the same homeroom wins the contest twice in a row the room gets to go downtown during activity period for a coke.

This contest is one of the many activities sponsored by the Student Council that benefits the pupils and the school. In the near future a dance for the students will be held. Also plans for the second annual College Day are being made.

The Student Council will sponsor the election of officers for next year in the spring.

The Council meets every Monday morning with Jon Boswell, president, presiding. Mrs. Sybil Taylor and Mrs. Catherine Spurlin are the advisors of this student government organization.

Four Class Beauties
Selected At Elba High,
To Be Featured In Elbala

Four girls from Elba will be featured in the 1964 ELBALA as their class beauties. These girls were selected by an election of the student body after they had been nominated by their homeroom.

Kathy Anderson, a very active senior and majorette of the Tiger Band, was chosen as the senior beauty. Carole Proctor, also a Tiger Band majorette and an asset to her junior class, was selected as the junior beauty.

Elaine Miller, "Lainey" to her friends, was chosen sophomore beauty. Elaine, now, is a Tiger Band majorette, and was recently selected as campus sweetheart in the who's who election.

Julie Moore represents the freshmen class as the freshman beauty. Julie was selected as Jr. III favorite in the who's who election.

The other girls that were nominated for the class beauties will be featured in the yearbook as favorites. The senior favorite is Glenda Ennis, Harriet Collier and Frances Jo Windham are the junior favorites, and the sophomore favorites are Nancy Harriett and Janice Davis. Dee Kennett is the freshman class favorite.

Rambling Roses and Flying Bricks

by Earl Tucker

Some people are sort of raising sand about the amount of money they are spending to get some photographs of the moon. I did see some place where had already come to $20 million dollars, but don't use these figures for arguing purposes because when a figure gets to $100,000 I get all confused and am liable to read it all wrong. In fact, I didn't know what a thousand dollars was until Roosevelt's third term. People who know all about these kind of things say we aren't throwing money away but gathering facts, like that's so, it sure looks like we need facts more than any country I know of.

I do sort of go along with some of the people who say we need information on other things a lot worse than we need moon-knowledge. Actual, what I do is to agree with whoever I'm talking to on account of I am a pussy-footing sort of politician and don't want to offend anybody. There was a fellow asked me not long ago why it is that a mule's ears get longer the older he gets. Right here, for instance, is a subject the government never has spent much money on and, as a consequence, we know mighty little about mules. In fact, the mule doesn't fit into anybody's plan. They have a pretty tough, a mule does, and she one is born, she stays a little to look forward to when his time has almost run out, he has mighty little to look back on. I reckon his ears are the least thing he has to worry about.

There was a piece in a little book I was reading that raises a good question. Somebody had written in it that when a mother hen with her brood always scratches there before she looks to see if she has scratched up a worm or or the pig. They scratch first with the left foot, then the right foot, and then the left foot again. This same fellow wanted to know if a hen laid an egg because she wanted to or had to.

Here is another field where the government hasn't spent a dime as far as I know, and it is just as well. Nowadays, with incubators and brooders, a hen, from the moment of the countdown, never sees or hears about her biddy, and never knows whether she's helping populate the world, adding this information to the chicken-ness, or making bacon taste better in the morning. An old farmer friend of mine wanted to know why a hen would often sneak off in a briar patch to build a nest where nobody could find it and then, when she laid an egg, cackle so loud you could hear her for three country miles.

I would like to go back, for just a moment, to that hen scratching three times. If you were denied the joy of country bunnies, you have missed a lot, but it is still not too late to miss the scratching hen. Make a trip to the country! If this isn't practical, buy a hen and some fertile eggs and see it in your own back yard. Invite the neighbors in. It is far better than television and, besides, you can eventually eat the chicken.

But I do want you to watch the expression on the hen's face as she starts the three scratches. There is no sign of hope there, nor is there a sign of defeat. It seems to be a mechanical sort of thing and her eyes show no interest in her task. She seems to have adopted an attitude of "Oh, well, I might as well scratch up one of these days." You certainly couldn't blame the little biddies if they got looking for a building, feathers, and then they pecked up in the least bit and a football coach who adopted her attitude would be moving every year.

Hens aren't the only crazy members of the chicken family. You can toss a handful of corn or chops at a bunch of chickens and they jump 5 feet off the ground, squeak and carry on like they're being punished.

There's just no telling how much money the government could spend by doing some research on hens and mules. (or was it million?) but a few hundred dollars. At least we could have a chicken-ity if things didn't go right.

Veterans Affairs Offer Seniors Free Benefits

The Alabama Department of Veterans Affairs is making a concerted effort to notify every high school senior in Alabama of free educational benefits available to them at state colleges and trade schools.

Information bulletins have been provided in Coffee County for the following schools: Elba High School, Zion Chapel High School, Kinston High School, New Brockton High School, Enterprise High School, Mulberry Heights High School, and Coppinsville High School.

In addition, Coffee County Veterans Service Officers, Maxwell Reeves, will begin making talks at the schools this spring about the benefits.

An Alabama law provides to all who qualify, free tuition and fees in all state-supported institutions of higher learning or trade schools. To be eligible, a person must be a dependent of a World War I, World War II or Korean War veteran.

Survivors include four sons, Oscar, Billy, L.J., and Robert, all of Elba; three daughters, Mrs. Ola Stroud, Mrs. Milla Boswell, and Mrs. Lilla Hurst, all of Elba.

The veteran must have lost his life as a result of wartime, if death occurred after discharge, had wartime disability of 40 or more percent at the time of death, or if still living, have a wartime service-connected disability of at least 40 percent.

Department Director Walter C. Head Jr. stressed that there is a time limit on applying for benefits and completing studies, before the information expires. The information may be obtained from the County Office.

Open House To Be Observed March 14

High school juniors and seniors from Coffee County are invited to an "open house" on the campus of Birmingham - Southern College on Saturday, March 14.

For the first time at Birmingham - Southern College, high school students will be guests of the college for a day of getting acquainted with campus life. They will be taken on tours of exhibits of the science, art, history, English, and other departments of the college and also will be entertained by talented students from the Conservatory of Music and the College Theatre. During the day, visitors will also see the dormitories, the fraternities, and sororities. Lunch will be served at the new Snavely Student Center.

Reservations for the high school day may be made through high school principals and counselors. You can use your vacuum cleaner when caring for your family's wardrobe. The small brush attachment is ideal for cleaning out pockets and raising the nap on pile fabrics.

What does your food bill include? If it's loaded with many non-food items like soups, detergents and paper products, then it is not a good guide for judging adequacy of food served. Deduct these items before passing judgment.

Red meat consumption per capita is expected to reach 170 pounds a person in 1964 about six pounds more than in 1962. Most of the gain will be in beef consumption.

Total milk production in 1964 will be about the same as for 1963. Total consumption of dairy products will increase, but per capita use will be lower than in 1964.

Having good farm records and being familiar with income tax provisions can save farmers money. The Farmers' Tax Guide, available from county agricultural agents, lists many aids in reporting taxes.

We're eating more vegetables today than our grandparents did 50 years ago. Vegetable consumption averages about 15 per cent more per person than back then.

FARM NEWS

BY TOM CASADAY, CO. AGENT

Pesticides are good friends that make living better for everyone, but you've got to treat them with respect.

Roy Ledbetter, Auburn University Entomologist, says that pesticides should be used only according to directions and precautions on the container label. He points out that accidents happen only when pesticide users are careless.

Careful users wear a protective mask when dusting or spraying. They also make sure that their equipment is safe before using it. Another precaution they take is never using pesticides around food or smoke while applying them.

Children and pesticides are a dangerous combination so it is best to separate them. "If used properly," says Ledbetter, "pesticides assure homeowners and farmers pest-free surroundings without needless worry."

Rotation Stems Peanut Diseases

Crop rotation--that's the least expensive practice for controlling peanut diseases. So says University Extension Plant Pathologist, Dr. Norman McGlohon.

According to Doctor McGlohon, planting peanuts after corn almost eliminates farmers' nematode problem. Research shows that peanuts following corn without fumigation give higher yields than peanuts following peanuts with soil fumigation.

Although a one-year rotation of peanuts with corn is adequate for nematode control, it's necessary to use a three-year rotation with corn to control Southern blight or white mold," points out Dr. McGlohon.

Many peanut seed on the market this year will be treated with Ceresan and Captan. This mixed treatment should help reduce seedling diseases.

Changes In Land Ownership

Almost 15 of Alabama's nearly 22 million forest acres are in ownerships of less than 5,000 acres. This is about the same total as in 1953.

Commercial forest land held by wood-using industries now totals 41 million acres, or about 19 percent of the states woodland acreage. In 1953, the industrial segment totaled 15 percent.

The total commercial forest acreage in private, non-industrial holdings, 16.5 million acres, remained about the same in the last 10 years. However, the woodland area classified as "farmer-owned" has noticeably changed. This change is at least partially due to a shift in occupation of many landowners who were formerly farm operators.

Those of you who have oars or teeth should tread with at least 50 pounds of nitrogen some time within the next few days. Now, 50 pounds of nitrogen doesn't mean just a half of a sack of something, but 50 pounds of actual nitrogen. It might take several sacks to get this amount on several acres, depending on what you use.

PEACHES that have not been pruned need to have this job done in the next week. In fact, it would have been better to have done this last week, but let your peach trees get much over head high.

Almost every day, someone in the county asks me about fertilizer for peach trees.

The following are our recommendations:

Young trees - apply two to three pounds of 8-8-8 per tree for each year of age.

On orchards, use 1,000-1,500 pounds per acre depending on the age and size.

Don't forget to use Zinc Sulfate to control rosette. This can be bought in the fertilizer stores.

Driving a tractor when you've been accustomed to driving a truck or car during the winter time can be dangerous early in the plowing season.

I know from experience that it takes a while to become adjusted to driving a tractor from one crop year to the next. I am pointing this out to emphasize the fact that each year in the wiregrass, we have two or three men through tractor accidents.

Plowing on a hill side, on a terrace, or getting too close to a ditch can be real dangerous. I wouldn't let small children ride on a tractor with me while I was plowing.

TRUCK CROP MEETING Collier Freeman and H. H. Turner of the Wiregrass Farmers Produce Market gave some good advice to the truck crop growers the other night at our annual truck crop and stockholders meeting.

Coffee County Students To Participate In AC's Annual College Night

Five Coffee County students attending Alabama College will figure prominently in annual College Night festivities to be held at the liberal arts college Thursday through Saturday, February 20-22.

Kay Shirley, Elba, Jayne Myrard and Wayne Purvis, Enterprise, hold key positions in this year's Purple team effort. Central figures on the opposing Gold squad are Ray Holland and Emory Earl Deal, both of Enterprise.

College Night is AC's oldest all-student tradition. It originated in 1917 as a celebration of George Washington's birthday.

Each succeeding year saw more elaborate skits, sharper competition and larger numbers of AC graduates returning to the campus to witness the annual rite.

Class competition went by the wayside in 1921 when the student body divided itself into two teams—the Purples and the Golds, named after traditional colors of the college. The annual "clash of colors" has continued up to the present.

The event soon outgrew the capacity of Main dining hall, and the scene of competition was shifted into Palmer Hall's 100-seat auditorium. Due to over-increasing numbers of former students returning to the Montevallo campus at this time each year, homecoming festivities were eventually made an integral part of College Night.

Today, competition between Purples and Golds centers primarily around athletic and stage production clashes, with additional points toward a College Night win coming from a number of closely related areas.

The Golds will try this year to fashion a fourth line onto a victory chain that dates back to 1901. The Purples, trying to hit the "come-back trail," still hold a narrow edge in overall wins. Purple hoosers have received the judges' nod 23 times, against 20 for honor votes for the Golds.

Homecoming festivities will be held on Saturday, February 22, returning alumni will register for the day's events from 9:00-11:45 a.m. in Reynolds Hall foyer.

One of the day's high points will be the dedication of AC's new carillon in the Tower, well-known landmark in the center of the AC campus. The electronic unit, which has become a "timepiece" for the entire area, will be dedicated to Mrs. Elizabeth H. Moore, one of the institution's first faculty members.

The day's events will be climaxed with the announcement of the 1964 College Night winner following the final curtain on stage productions in Palmer Auditorium.

Coffee County students have traditionally played important roles in the annual event, now scheduled on the weekend nearest Washington's birthday.

Miss Shirley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Shirley, Elba, is a freshman at AC. She has been selected as one of the 1964 Purple team cheerleaders.

Miss Myrard, also a freshman, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Myrard, III, Hwy. Avenue, Enterprise. She is regional secretary for the Purple stage production.

Purvis is a transfer student at AC and is a junior. The son of L.C. Purvis, Route 1, Enterprise, he is a member of the Purple basketball squad.

Mrs. B.M. Deal, 215 E. Hildreth Street, is a featured member of the cast.

Brunson Family History Recently Published

A History of The Brunson Family has been recently published by Marion Brunson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fox Brunson of Elba. The 180 page book contains a history of the Brunson's from the Fifteenth Century in England through 1903. The Brunsons came to America in 1633, settling in Connecticut and later moving to South Carolina. They later migrated into Georgia and came to Coffee County in December 1853 and settled on Pea River north of Elba in the Woodland Grove area. For more than ten years, Mr. Brunson has collected historical and genealogical data on this large family. Mr. and Mrs. Brunson make their home in Enterprise where he is Principal of Hillcrest Elementary School.

LEAP YEAR DAY

Saturday is that special day that comes only once every four years and is known as Leap Year. It is a day that gives girls the privilege of claiming her man, and bachelors are apt to be in for a rough day.

If we live to get around to another leap year (four years from now) we should make plans for a big to-day as the residents of Elba, Illinois are doing this year. They are planning one of the wildest holiday for Saturday when a man may be jailed for being unmarried. It seems that even the victims, the bachelors, are excited. The plans is that the single ladies will take over the northern Illinois city of nearly 20,000 persons for the one-in-a-quadrant event. A young lady will be inaugurated mayor for a day and other girls will take the other city jobs - police chief, judge, fire chief, city prosecutor, and the City Council posts. After that, the male population must watch its step - and its pocketbook.

The lady mayor said they couldn't hold court in a stuffy ordinary courtroom, and they decided to do it over in red and white. But it was only to be with lots of gay plastic ornaments and ribbons.

Bachelors were being summoned and those who don't come in voluntarily will be arrested and carried to court, according to the lady mayor. When she was asked how a 160-pound woman can drag a man into court, she smiled. "Oh, it's been done before," she said. "Some men have sent flowers to some of our prospective city officials," and "We'll deal with those fellows."

When the bachelors threatened be in Elba for the Rally. The Legion Home on Troy Road will be open early for guests.

Barbecue plates will be ready for serving at 11 A.M. and will continue to be served the rest of the day.

The program will start at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon. Commissioner Phillip Hamm will make the opening address.

The Deacons of the Westside Baptist Church are sponsoring a hospital fund for Mrs. Ada Meacham. Mrs. Meacham is 82 years old and has been in the hospital on an average of more than 30 days each year for some time. She is now in the Mizell Memorial Hospital in Opp.

On Tuesday, February 25th, she completed the

100 Acres Of Peas Needed For Market

Peas will be bought again in Elba this summer. Approximately 500 acres have been signed up and at least another 100 acres are needed and up to 400 more can be used.

Farmers interested in the growing of peas should contact H. B. Thompson, Assistant County Agent, or Jake Lubert Morrow at the Morrow Gin & Warehouse.

Thompson urges the planting of these peas. This is the third year that a contract has been made with farmers of this area for the peas. He stated that it is an opportunity for farmers to utilize family and farm labor during the month of July and bring in a cash harvest.

600 acres is required by contract before the market can be held this summer. The field representative of the company that has bought the peas the past two years informed Thompson that they would need to buy at least 700 tons here this year.

The third and final round in the massive campaign to win "Victory Over Polio" in Coffee County is scheduled for Sunday afternoon, March 1st.

On this date, Sabin oral polio vaccine will again be offered to Coffee County citizens between the hours of 12 noon until 6 P.M.

Elba High School, Elba, is a very outstanding student at New Brockton High School, both white and colored, 7101 Chapel High School, Enterprise Junior High School, Enterprise High School, Enterprise Carroll Street Elementary School, Coppenhagen High School.

The program will begin at 9 o'clock at the Bill Womack farm, located six miles Southeast of Ashford in Houston County. Farmers from this area should follow Highway 84 through Doughton to Ashford and look for signs of instructions to the farm.

Physicians point out that immunity against polio cannot be achieved unless the three separate doses of the vaccine are taken and it is so vital that all those who have taken the first two doses of vaccine complete their immunity by taking the third dose on Sunday afternoon.

However, it is pointed out, even those who missed either or both of the first two doses should take the vaccine to be administered March 1st, as this will afford protection against one serious type of polio.

Physicians, dentists, nurses and other volunteer workers will again man the clinics, and only a few moments will be required to get the vaccine. The vaccine will again be administered on the tongue in the case of infants or others who cannot take sugar.

No charge will be made for the vaccine. However, those who are able to do so will have the opportunity to make a 25¢ contribution to help defray expenses of the program.

The program topic is "Youth's Heritage of Freedom - License or Restraint".

The guest speaker will be Annie Lola Price, Preaching Judge, Court of Appeals, State of Alabama.
